

& she did not think she could have another -

The refreshments - were really disgusting - they had mahogany and looking glasses - with green velvet them! - Mrs J. thought $50.00 would buy all they had - Mrs Blodget went in - & was disgusted at the want of neatness in the sewing - if her little girl should do any such work, she should shut her up

So says every one there It is a poor concern - they took $20 at the door the first day - have probably taken in many friends - but let people look out -

Mrs Follen has sent an article of $10.00 - Miss Roby - $6.00 - Sarah Shurt $3.00

Walter Furnessworth sent Chas. $2000 to do what she pleases with - St. Winslow has sent a prettyish piece for the Bell who is now printing fast. if you will have your ~~notes~~ <sup>notes</sup> for me I shall be glad - send them next mail - for the case has been -

Saturday noon

I went to the within night before last & have found no time to add a word since last night I was so sick * that I did not get up after school till about 9 this morning when I revived & came in town - found the town noisome full of business - & made out or two - then & then went to a board meeting at the office the deliberate consent Bishop - a letter from Mr Adams - The but stone man - was read & one from Charles P Boston Hoping that the board would satisfy Bishop I believe ~~was~~ <sup>will</sup> ~~new~~ —

You see B - is stirring up all the mischief he can — The board decided that it would be wrong to permit any such proceeding at the instance of individuals as others might be thereby aggrieved — Himes has no doubt that B is concerned with by A C - & even thinks Phelps wrote the questions which will show —

I went up to see Mrs Adams - & found her very sorry for B's conduct - but hoping he is true - B. lives there you know - got home then Mary looked for some friendly face & found none & then asked where Mrs Chapman was - a woman said - she had not yet come - where the Miss Hestons - they too had not come - Miss Foley said her heart sunk within her at the paucity & moth-eringness of all she saw - & she was execrating Mr Gray for bringing the cause so low - they suffered their English things but she saw they were very ordinary - Just as she was going out of the Hall she met Miss Ball - A sudden light on Mary broke - she saw it all why was she so stupid

She & Miss I came directly to West Street for comfort - & got it Mary took advice & then went back & carried her purchases - telling them she had been deceived that she would on no account knowingly do any thing to sustain the B & P. - She should not take the things & she should be glad of her money - they demurred but at last Miss Bab returned the money which Mary got trian-cantly back to West Street When Miss Soley was waiting Miss I. had refused to go with her - she had had the same one fight - with them about, 50 cents

& found Anna Shaw

R.G.'s youngest daughter here - mouth open - drinking in Ant's & Loney she could hold out one tongue - but determined to come to the lights - she spoke for the swiss Paper folder - & would bring others to the fair - Then found that a band box - had been left from New Bedford with a note to Debon from A.M. Bailey - asking us to send what toilet cushions & lamp mats there were as she had a friend going to be married who would buy them at any price -

as we had none of us in when the note arrived she had no time to cross about us - but we packed up what we had - & while we were thinking of heading to the South rocks - for more things the men came & saw he must take the box instantly I told him to tell Miss B. - when he saw he should see - that you were <sup>and</sup> ~~at~~

 not at home when he was to come - & that we had sent what we could find in a hurry & would write by next mail - this he promised to say -

Princess has written a satisfactory letter & got it off all well as usual
