WILLEY'S BOOK OF NUTFIELD

And Semi-Centennial History of Manchester.

HON. HENRY W. BLAIR,

ex-United States Senator, says:

We have nothing in the line of local or even state history which at all approaches it in attractiveness of general appearance, nor in comprehensive as well as minute historic value. Mr. Willey's plan seems to be to seek out everything and to preserve what is best worth preserving in the past, while presenting a complete photograph of the present, so that the whole will become an acknowledged authority for future times. I think that the "Book of Nutfield" will be one of permanent value and of great interest to thousands in all parts of the country.

(Signed)

HENRY W. BLAIR.

WHAT IS AN "AD-SMITH"?

AN "AD-SMITH" is a man who writes advertisements for those too busy to write their own, and who undertakes to keep ones business announcements up to date. That is my business. Do you need me? If so, address me at the Board of Trade rooms, and I think we can arrange terms satisfactory to all concerned.

PINK TONIC!

In offering this preparation to the public, we are pushing no quack nostrum, but a regular physician's prescription which has met with remarkable success in giving tone to the system, regulating the liver, and giving it a healthy action.

The liver is one of the most important organs of the body; on its health depends the health of the whole internal system.

Now, then, it is plain to be seen that it is just as impossible for the blood to be in a pure state, with the liver in an unhealthy condition, as it is impossible to have impure blood when the liver is in perfect working order.

When the liver is torpid or sluggish and a person is in the condition known as Bilious, the system is ripe to take on any contagious disease.

Disease Cannot Exist Before This Conqueror!

In cases of constipation the result will be greatly hastened by taking our Pink Alterative Powder in connection with Pink Tonic.

Price of PINK TONIC, 75 Cents.

Price of PINK ALTERATIVE POWDER, 25 Cents.

WEST MANCHESTER.

WHAT is so much to be desired, amid the changes of fortune, the fluctuations of health, incapacitating sicknesses of life, and the feebleness of age as a fixed and certain income; an income whose amount is known in advance and the certainty of its being paid you on a certain day is absolute.

Amid doubt and fear, the loss of fortune and friends, girt by perils seen and unseen, in the agony of swift sickness, in the growing feebleness of age, what so blessed as to know that for you and those you love there is laid by, accumulating, held in reserve, a sure and ample provision for every actual need of life even to life's latest day.

It is just here, at this point of view, that the mind of one who has money to invest for his children, for his dependents, for charity or for himself in his advancing years, receives its illumination. For if he be intelligent he knows only too well how unsatisfactory, because uncertain, are the processes provided by law or sanctified by custom among us Americans, for the transmission not of property but of income-earning investments from one generation to another.

How shall the wife, unaccustomed to business, be surely provided for or protected against her own inexperience? How shall the children, in case of sudden death of the father, be still the recipients of his loving care and prescience? How shall the aging parents, as the riskful years multiply, have a sure and ample provision made for them? And how shall he himself, the man in his vigorous prime, chief motor at the centre of large affairs, securely armor himself against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune that may at any time assault him and leave him battered, bruised and prostrate on the field of financial defeat?

These are interrogations which intelligent men in all branches of business and walks of life are trying to answer, and are finding answers satisfactory to themselves in the methods of investment provided for them by the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, as its daily record of increasing business in the direction of annuities testifies.

ADDRESS BY W. H. H. MURRAY.

The Mutual Life celebrated its Semi-Centennial three years earlier than Manchester, and during its entire existence its bonds have never been quoted below par, or discounted by the fraction of a cent. It is and has long been the largest and strongest monetary corporation on earth. Its assets today exceed $220,000,000—more than three times the combined deposits of all the savings banks of New Hampshire. It paid to policy holders in 1895 above $23,000,000, and since organization has returned over $411,000,000. The ablest financiers are among its patrons and YOU are invited to call at our office and investigate its many attractive investment policies.
