About deadEarth Unauthorized Edition

deadEarth is the creation of JT Smith and Chris Hagness and is the copyright of The Game Crafter LLC and Anarchy Ink.

The deadEarth RPG products have been released by The Game Crafter under the GNU Free Documentation License allowing for the non-commercial redistribution and modification of the game materials.

deadEarth Unauthorized Edition is a non-fan recompilation of the deadEarth game and is meant to supplement the use of the existing materials. Each book in the deadEarth Unauthorized line is also released under the terms of the GNU Free Documentation License (see the end of this document for details).

deadEarth Unauthorized Edition has been compiled and produced by Dyson Logos and is released by DLGames.

About this Sourcebook

Sourcebook 1 - Radiation Manipulations is an attempt to organize the radiation manipulations presented in the various deadEarth books and supplements into a single set of tables.

But beyond that, I have tried to classify the various radiation manipulations into a variety of sub-tables based on the effects of the radiation manipulation. One of the goals of this change is to allow the Game Master to change the character generation rules so that radiation manipulations rolled during character generation cannot be instantly fatal to the character being created. This system also allows for very specific radiation manipulation tables to be called up for specific occurrences - specific artifacts may only trigger one type of radiation manipulation, and some radiation manipulations may call for rolls from specific tables. This in part also eliminates the abortive "PMRA" system that was introduced in the Game Master's Guide.

About the deadEarth deadEarth is a post-apocalyptic RPG set nine years after the end of World War III. Roughly 90% of humanity was destroyed in the war, and the survivors are starting to rebuild.

deadEarth is the most realistic game ever, with heavily researched setting and mechanics that reflect reality better than any other game on the market or that you have ever imagined.

It is also the only RPG with unlimited flexibility because it relies on the imagination of the players and the Game Master to detail the world and the characters that live within it.

About the Author

Dyson has been gaming for over 30 years and for some reason has recently become obsessed with the deadEarth RPG.

Dyson originally bought the game at CanGames in 2000 from the people at Ambient Inc who were demonstrating the game at the convention that year. To this day he wishes he had signed up for the demonstration game that was held there, as from all descriptions it actually somehow worked - something he has never managed to make happen with the game as written.

Dyson maintains an RPG-oriented blog with characters and a collection of hand-drawn maps at <http://rpgcharacters.wordpress.com>.

Dyson finds it odd to write about himself in the third person on the first page of this book.

This deadEarth Unauthorized Edition sourcebook was released on September 22, 2009.

Rolling For Radiation Manipulations

While deadEarth claims to be a deadly game overall, it has been generally noted that character creation is probably the deadliest part of the game because of the lethality of the Radiation Manipulations table.

The new division of the Radiation Manipulations into categories allows for the removal of the 104 deadly, nearly deadly, and seriously crippling radiations as well as the 15 “realistic or boring” radiations.

These radiations are kept in play for rolls on the Radiation Manipulations tables once game play has begun, but during character creation they are avoided to allow for less useless characters.

The exception is if a character has a choice as to whether or not to gain additional radiations during character creation - such as spending skill points for a radiation or when dealing with a radiation that allows the character to choose a radiation in exchange for getting another one rolled for. In these cases, the character must roll on the “in play” radiation manipulations table instead of the “character creation” table.

The Radiation Manipulations have been broken up into the following categories & charts:

Violence - dealing specifically with combat and combat abilities

Cross Mutation - giving you abilities and features of other creatures

Events & Renown - modify renown or are one-time actions & events

Mental Radiations - affect personality and mental abilities

Physical Radiations - affect physical stats, appearance and structure

Rites & Powers - grant abilities not normally available

Skill Manipulations - provide bonuses or penalties to skills, or increase skill points when using skills

The Ugly Stick - makes your mutant ugly

Meta-Manipulations - affect or are affected by other radiation manipulations

No Fun At All - crippling, disabling and deadly

Boring & Realistic - do nothing or give you cancer
