

Notes on the Wikijournal of Humanities article:

Osman I, father of kings

Dr. Rama Draz<sup>1</sup>

After Reviewing the forementioned article on Wikijournal of Humanities, the following points were highlighted:

1. References, both Arabic and Western, are diverse and good, reaching 58 in total.
2. The content is very good. The writer talked about the prominent aspects in Sultan Osman's life, including all his conquests.
3. The research context and the sequence of facts and events are good.
4. The writer showed accuracy in determining dates and describing events.

Notes

This article fulfils the standards of academic researches, as the writer applied the specialized methodology and conditions of writing an academic paper.

The title is interesting, and is connected directly to the subject of the study. The writer was successful in choosing it. He was also successful in providing an interesting study and some important information about the life of Sultan Osman I and the era in which he lived.

Sources and references were diverse, both in Arabic and Western languages. It is noted also that the author adhered to the full ethics of academic research.

Based on this, I believe this article is fit to be published in wikijournal, and recommend that you go forward with this step.

---

<sup>1</sup> Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Human Sciences, Department of History, Beirut Arab University (BAU)